Six Comics Band Together To Bring New Energy and Laughs to Tri-State Area

Brooklyn, NY, August 14, 2006 – Redlightcomedy.com, a new comic troupe of five men and one woman, has hit the comedy circuit across New York City and beyond. The group has been recognized for their high energy and unique style, and is becoming familiar to Brooklyn residents who have attended “Sunday Night Laughs” at the Edessa Lounge in Park Slope.

Individually, the comics can be seen performing at venues including Carolines and Gotham in New York City, as well as Brokerage Comedy Club and Katie’s of Smithtown on Long Island. They are readily available for clubs, bars and events across the tri-state area.

“We’re very excited to provide an independent comedy troupe that crosses demographic lines and can appeal to a wide variety of people,” said Andrew Haner, founder and booker for Redlightcomedy.com. “Our diverse backgrounds give each of us a unique comedic style, but our blend is what transcends to our audiences.”

Redlightcomedy.com was formed in May 2006 when the six comics met during a course at the Manhattan Comedy School. The comics are:

Mike Bower, of Brooklyn, NY, hosts “The Bower Show” on Sirius satellite radio’s Maxim Channel. Bower’s professional stage presence and above-average approach about being average has landed him frequent spots on new talent showcases for Carolines and Gotham in New York City.

Christian Cintron, of Flushing, NY, is a freelance writer and Mobile Marketing Researcher. Bookers and audiences enjoy Cintron’s likeable style as he banters about what it’s like to be a gay, Puerto Rican. He has appeared in gay pride shows as well as Latino showcases.

Meredith Daniels, of Floral Park, NY, the sole female in the group, currently works as an Internet News Manager for Newsday. Daniels is recognized for her tight writing style and sarcastic wit. She performs in New York City and Long Island venues, such as Brokerage and McGuire’s comedy clubs.

Six Comics Bring Laughs to Tri-state

Andrew Haner, of Brooklyn, NY, founder of Redlightcomedy.com, is an architect by day, but a news junkie and comedy producer by night. Haner is a detail-oriented and effective leader, but he is also a comic who focuses on topical issues.

Daniel Kennedy, of Deer Park, NY, has a background in musical theater, but his comedy style can be best described as absurd observationalism. He has a matter-of-fact way of presenting bizarre thoughts and daydreams and often closes shows because of his strong, unique performances.

Ned Long, of Elizabeth, NJ, a middle school English teacher, brings an unbridled energy and extensive vocabulary to his story-telling comedy style. Long is also a singer in an alternative band, and sometimes incorporates a musical voice range or rap into his sets.

The comics of Redlightcomedy.com can be seen individually across New York, Long Island and New Jersey, and as a group at various venues including the Edessa Lounge in Brooklyn, NY. They can be booked as a group or individually. The group welcomes guest performers at their "Sunday Night Laughs" at the Edessa Lounge.
